If you use Windows 10, you know that there's no native app to access Apple Notes on your PC. However, there are some other ways to access your iPhone, iPad, and Mac notes on your Windows 10-based computer. Here's how. Use the iCloud Website to Access Apple Notes The iCloud website lets you access many of Apple's services on your non-Apple devices, including Apple Notes. You can use this website on your Windows 10 PC and get access to all your iPhone, iPad, and macOS notes. First, you need to ensure that your Apple devices' notes are synced to iCloud. On your iPhone or iPad, head into Settings > [Your Name] > iCloud and turn on the "Notes" toggle. On macOS, click the Apple logo in the top-left corner, select "System Preferences," choose "iCloud," and tick the "Notes" box. Now that your notes are synced to iCloud, you can access them from your PC. Launch a browser on your computer, open the iCloud website, and log in to your account. Click "Notes" on the iCloud website, and you'll see all your iOS and macOS notes on your screen. You can view as well as edit all your notes. You can even create new notes from this screen. Make a Progressive Web App to View Apple Notes on Windows 10 If you don't like the browser-like interface for accessing Apple Notes, you can actually make a progressive web app that shows all your notes in an app-like interface. A progressive web app is basically a wrapper of a website. Instead of having to open the browser and clicking options, you can access all your notes with a single click in a progressive web app. You can use both Microsoft Edge as well as Google Chrome to make an app for Apple Notes. Here, we show how you can do the task in both these browsers. Open Edge or Chrome on your PC and access the iCloud website. Log in to your account and click the "Notes" icon to view your notes. If you're using Google Chrome, click the three dots in the top-right corner and select More Tools > Create Shortcut. Tick the "Open as window" box and click "Create." You can change the app name, though it's optional. You'll see the shortcut to your newly created app on your desktop, and you can search for the app using the "Start" menu. If you're using Edge, click the three dots in the top-right corner and select Apps > Install this site as an app. Enter a name for your app and click "Install." You can then find your app in the "Start" menu. Clicking on this app opens Apple Notes as if you've installed the actual Notes app on your Windows 10 PC. Standard browser elements like the address bar and the bookmarks bar are all stripped off, giving you the pure native app's feel and look. Since these are standard Windows apps, you can uninstall them if you no longer need them. You can do this by heading into Control Panel > Uninstall a program, selecting the app in the list, and clicking the "Uninstall" option. Use Gmail to View Apple Notes on Windows 10 If you use Gmail, you can actually integrate Gmail with Apple Notes and view all your iOS and macOS notes on your Windows 10 PC. Here are a few things that you should know before you do this: You can't import your existing notes into Gmail. Only the notes you create after performing this procedure will appear in your Gmail account. Gmail doesn't let you edit your notes. You can only view your notes. Your notes are editable only on your Apple devices. If that's okay with you, start by heading into Settings > Passwords & Accounts > Gmail and turning on the "Notes" toggle on your iOS device. If you're running iOS 14 or later, you need to head into Settings > Contacts > Accounts > Gmail and enable the "Notes" toggle. Once you do that, Gmail will create a new folder named "Gmail" in the Notes app on your iOS device. Any notes you create within this "Gmail" section are accessible from your Gmail account. To view your Apple Notes in Gmail, open the Gmail site and click "Notes" on the left. You'll see all the notes that you've created under the "Gmail" section in the Notes app on your devices. That's all there is to it. If you often exchange data like this, it's a good idea to integrate your iPhone with your Windows PC. RELATED: How to Integrate Your iPhone with a Windows PC or Chromebook Apple Notes is convenient for jotting down information quickly on your iPhone or iPad. However, like many other Apple apps, it doesn't have a Windows version. So while accessing Apple Notes on a Windows computer might appear like a chore, it is easy enough. We'll show you some useful ways to access and view your iPhone's Apple Notes on a Windows PC. 1. Sync Your iPhone Notes With Gmail With the absence of a dedicated Apple Notes app for Windows, you can still access your notes using the Gmail account. This will only require you to let your Gmail account access the content of the Apple Notes app on your iPhone. Here's how you can make that happen. Open the Settings app on your iPhone. Scroll down and tap on Contacts. If your iPhone runs iOS 13 or older, scroll down and tap on Passwords & Accounts. Tap on Accounts. Under Accounts, choose Gmail. If you don't see it, tap on Add Account, then enter your Google account info to sync your Gmail, contacts, calendar, and notes with the iPhone. Under Gmail, confirm that the toggle next to Notes is enabled. That will create a dedicated Gmail folder in the Notes app, between the iCloud and On My iPhone folders. While this method is quite easy to set up, it has one major limit: it won't copy your old notes. Only new notes you make after enabling the sync will appear in Gmail. You can't move the notes from the iCloud or On My iPhone folders to the Gmail notes folder. You'll have to copy the content of old notes by creating a new one under the Gmail folder in the Apple Notes app. 2. Use the Notes Web App on iCloud.com If you have a lot of notes, then transferring them to new ones as above is tedious. Thankfully, Apple offers web access to iCloud.com on Windows, which you can use to view your Apple Notes content. Here's how you can start: Open the Settings app on your iPhone and tap on your Apple ID at the top. Tap iCloud and confirm the toggle next to Notes is enabled. Head to the iCloud.com site and sign in using your Apple ID. You'll have to insert an authentication code from your iPhone to proceed. After that, select Trust when you see a popup asking whether you want to trust the browser on your Windows PC. On the iCloud home page, select the Notes to launch its web app version. Using the Notes web app, you can view all the notes from your iPhone's Apple Notes and even edit them in the browser. The changes you make there will get synced to the iPhone as well. 3. Make a Progressive Web App in Microsoft Edge or Google Chrome If you need to work with Apple Notes regularly on your Windows PC, then you can turn iCloud.com's Apple Notes into a Progressive Web App (PWA). We've covered all you need to know about Progressive Web Apps if you're not familiar with these yet. Doing this creates a makeshift app that you can pin to your taskbar, even though it's really just a shortcut to the website. To start, open iCloud.com in Microsoft Edge or Google Chrome and sign in. Select Notes from the list of options. When the Notes web app loads, you can move onto installing the app to your desktop. On Edge, open the browser menu and head to Apps. Then, select Install this site as an app. Give it a name, and select Install. The Notes web app will pop open in a new app window. To make it quickly accessible, right-click its icon on the taskbar and select Pin to taskbar. On Chrome, open its browser menu and head to More Tools. Then choose Create Shortcut. From the new window, give a name to the shortcut, check the box for Open as window, and tap Create. That'll create a Notes web app shortcut on your desktop for easy access. While you can view and edit your notes using iCloud and sync the changes to the iPhone, there's always a risk of losing important details. Since there's no version control, older details are lost once overwritten. Take care when editing your notes in this way. 4. Move Notes From Apple Notes to Simplenote If you only need to access and work on select important notes, you can enlist the help of other note-taking apps that work better with Windows. Simplenote is one of those fuss-free note-taking apps, which will sync your notes using the cloud and make them available on iPhone and Windows. To start, head to the Simplenote site and create an account there. Then download, install, and sign into the Simplenote app on your iPhone, as well as the desktop version for Windows. Download: Simplenote for iPhone | Windows (Free) Moving Your Notes to Simplenote Now that you have Simplenote ready, here's how to move what you have in Apple Notes over: In the Apple Notes app, open the note you want to move. When it opens, tap the three dots in the top-right corner of the note and select Send a Copy. From the Share sheet that pops open, you'll have to swipe on the apps row and pick Simplenote. After that, your iPhone will show you a preview of the note. You can also add text or emoji to the note preview. Hit Save to confirm in the top-right corner of that preview. That note will get copied to the Simplenote on your iPhone. Simultaneously, it will sync the app's desktop version, as long as your desktop is connected to the internet. You can also use Simplenote's web app for your work, meaning you can access those notes no matter what device you're using. Your notes are synced to the cloud and made accessible everywhere you log in with your account. With this automated notes sync set up, you can work in Simplenote on your desktop and sync the latest version to the app on your iPhone. Of course, you'll retain the original copy of the note in the Apple Notes. Check out some lesser-known Simplenote tips and tricks for better note-taking. View and Transfer Your Apple Notes to Windows It's a waste of time to read out your Apple Notes as you type them on your Windows computer to refer them later. There are many better ways to access what you have saved in Apple Notes on your Windows desktop, as we've seen. Syncing your Apple Notes with Gmail is a good option if you only want to view your notes on your Windows PC. Otherwise, you can use a Progressive Web App or the Notes web app to edit the notes on a larger screen. The best long-term option is to use Simplenote and work on the imported notes separately. No matter which method you pick, you can enjoy the Apple Notes app without worries.
