The Story section on this page is incomplete. The chapter ends with both of them noticing that the weather cleared up. Kurotsuno then relocates to the couch where she starts berating Hanten, who is napping on the couch, for her sleazy behavior. She berates him over the phone and calls him a pest. Glasses then appears, asking whether Kurotsuno has seen her father and making his formal debut. After Hanten scares away the birds, Kurotsuno reminisces about her hatred for crows. [1] The story of Obsolete Dream is set in Ne-no-Kuni and explores the lives of Kurotsuno and her friends as they go about their daily tasks. It is currently akin to a slice of life manga with hints at an underlying story, such as Kurotsuno's past. Bis, Reina, and Met can be seen playing Jenga in the background. The next scene opens with a sullen Sullivan at Maekami's bar with the latter trying to console him about Kurotsuno's behavior. She is seen planting a seed, and then later returning to presumably the same area once it has flourished. The reader is first greeted by a flashback to a wasteland, in which Olivia makes her first appearance and delivers a short monologue. Page 7 with Bis, Reina, and MetPage 10 with Kurotsuno and Hanten At the start of the chapter, Kurotsuno is seen having a phone call with her father Sullivan, though he is given no dialogue. Met proceeds to bully Bis about always losing to Reina and calls her a dog, which turns into an altercation that is eventually shut down Kurotsuno. In flashbacks that happen inside the progue, both a black hand (presumably Hanten) and Olivia's necklace are visas in close-ups. The two have a forward and forth in which Kurotsuno scatters his invitations to hang out with him.
