Whether or not you accept it, go into the content using this site. Welcome to the official German Dog Club, Inc. Web site. We recommend that you take a look at this new site and enjoy the content you find. Whether you want to add a German dog to your life, or a long time a lingered mentor or dominate, this page has been designed to meet your needs. Great Data Club of America is proud of its establishment, philosophy and its commitment to serve its members and animals. While organization that contributes to the health and vitality of German dogs through scientific research financed by our well -managed charity foundation. Akc divided all races into seven categories or groups based on roughly function and heritage. "}," API_URL ":" https: \/\sbdapi.akc.org Breata_Name ":" German Dog "," Parent_Club_health_statement link ":" http: \/\cdn.akc.org "The German dog is usually a health problems throughout their lives, but most German dogs are healthy dogs. German dogs grow quickly and may suffer too much. Good nutrition is the basis of appropriate physical activity. A slight bone disease called panelteitis causes inflammation of the long bone that grows. This is usually spontaneous, the baby softens and pulp can move from foot to feet. Veterinarian will write inflation preventive drugs and the puppy will overcome it. Other, more serious bone states tend to be nutritious and can be dangerous for well as a sensor. Like other deep -breasted breeds, German dogs suffer from stomach and stomac let your Danish gain weight. The weight can be easy, but it can be difficult to remove. The life of a heavy dog will be shorter. Being overweight will cause problems with movement as old. "," Akc_org_health ":" overflow or expansion of the stomach - Volvulus (GDV) - Danish killer. You must learn to recognize the signs that bloating may occur and what to do if this is the case. Many growers and owners are considering a surgery called preventative gastropex ("Preventive Feed" \u009D) that can help prevent disease, hypothyroidism and autoimmune thyroiditis, and hip dysplasia. The responsible breeder will have a screening on conditions that may affect the breed. "," AKC_ORF_NUTRITION ":" Feed big data with high quality dog foods adapted to the dog's age (puppy, adult or seniors). Eat the pieces economically, if at all avoiding cooked bones and meals that are particularly rich in fat. Find out what humans are safe for dogs and which are not. Owners should be aware that the digital killer of the race is the bloating that the stomach prolongs and returns. The causes of bloating energy exercises at many small meals and meals a day can help reduce the chances of reducing them. "," AKC_ORG_GROMING ":" Most of the year, short data falls short, a smooth layer does not fall off much, but given the size of the dog, this can always mean enough hair. A center post brush, rubber gloves, or a weekly brush with tools or gloves will help you lose a minimum. While the season decreases once or twice a year, hair loss is more common with an ideal daily brush. Great Danes only need a bath from time to time unless they fall for something sloppy. In all breeds, as with large nails, dams should be trimmed regularly because excessively long nails can cause dog pain and walking and running problems. "," AKC_org_exery ": "Great Danes may seem calm, but they require daily practice of exercises that are appropriate for their age. All you need is an energetic walk two or three times a day. You can make good companions for joggs or walking, but you should wait until the dog is 2 years old to avoid increased joints. Avoid strict exercise to eat because of the risk of bloating. Danes tend to follow their noses wherever they can smell, so they should be kept on a leash at all times and only allow loose areas protected by a high fence. Many Danes like to follow agility, obedience, events, design and sports like flyball. "," AKC org tringing ":" Initial socialization, "exposing a delicate puppy to different people, places and situations" will help him develop into a well-adapted adult. German Hounds are social, friendly and eager to please, they respond well to firm, consistent training methods. They need human contact, affection and interaction with other people and animals.
